The other day, I saw a picture of a doctor performing surgery on a patient. Behind him was Jesus Christ, the Great Physician, with one hand on the doctor's shoulder and His other hand pointing to the next incision. I was so moved by the image.

Tomorrow morning, I'll be on the operating table, and the physician will be making incisions where I hope the Spirit of Christ will help guide him to perform the best operation possible. I've had many surgeries since my injury in Vietnam—this will be number 63.

The healing process has been spiritual, physical, and emotional. Emotionally, I'm a little stressed. Physically, I'm in a lot of pain. Spiritually, I'm doing just fine.

Where my concern lies is with the ministry, because when I'm not on the road speaking, I'm not earning the financial support that is so urgently needed for all of our programs. I'm asking you to be a blessing to the ministry while I'm on the table and during my recovery. Would you consider making a generous contribution to help offset the lack of income due to my inability to perform my fundraising and vision-setting ministry? If so, now is the time to do it. As I mentioned in my last appeal (and this will echo that request), when you give to this ministry, you're sowing into the future, not the past. You're not paying for something that's unpaid or buying something we cannot afford. You're giving to something that has life everlasting. We sow into human beings.

With your support, we can continue the ministry uninterrupted, even though I will be unable to perform my duties for several weeks following the surgery.

Thank you for your support. I truly love and appreciate all of you who love and appreciate all we do.
